WHAT'S ON IN MARCH

Horses in Hawke's Bay

The Hastings A&P Showgrounds is about to be transformed into a veritable city of trucks, trailers and campervans, housing riders and spectators for the 2017 Horse of the Year show.

It's the kind of event that people just flock to – even if horses aren't your thing, it's hard not to appreciate the passion and skill that builds the atmosphere at the show. There's a sort of infectious excitement that fills the air and causes the crowds to swell to over 50,000 people as the show goes on. HOY, as the Horse of the Year show has come to be known, has been in Hawke's Bay for nearly two decades and pumps $12 million back into the economy annually, with tens of thousands of visitors descending on the Bay each year.

The show caters to the equestrian enthusiast and the public in a variety of ways: as well as the entertainment and excitement generated from the skill and strength of the competitors and their horses, there's plenty to do and see. The Hastings Heart of Hawke's Bay Friday Night Extravaganza is a definite must see and the shopping at HOY is phenomenal (and definitely not just horse-centric, with a wide variety of local businesses choosing the event to showcase, sell and promote their products.) So come along and experience New Zealand's premier equestrian event - you'll be surprised!

The Competition:

Around 3,000 riders and horses compete at Horse of the Year annually, taking part in a number of different disciplines. Equestrian as a sport is one of few where all ages, genders and levels compete on a fair playing field, producing an impressive diversity and range of competitors.

In show jumping, horses and riders compete to jump a course of big fences in the fastest time without knocking any poles down or refusing any jumps. An Olympic discipline, show jumping is one of the most technical and thrilling to watch, with the jumps getting up to 1.6m high in certain classes. The highlight of the show jumping is the Olympic Cup, with big jumps and big money up for grabs. The youngest competitor in the class will be 17 year old Emily Hayward-Morgan, and the oldest is Maurice Beatson at 63 years. Show jumping is also the core of the pony club section, where young teams from pony clubs around the country compete for the Pony Club Team of the Year prize.

Eventing is perhaps the most famous discipline in New Zealand thanks to the likes of Mark Todd, Blyth Tait and Vaughn Jefferis. More recently, Jock Paget and Clarke Johnstone have been following in the footsteps of these greats. The eventing classes take place over three days, with dressage on Thursday, show jumping on Friday, and the thrilling cross country phase on Saturday morning.

With record entries for 2017 show, dressage is proving to be a growing discipline. The precision and skill it takes to train and campaign at the high levels is incredibly impressive, with years and years of work coming to fruition. Many of the dressage events are classified as musical freestyles, where riders write their own tests and perform them to their chosen music compilations.

Mounted games is one of the most exciting sections with a diverse range of riders and ponies competing in all sorts of games, including bending races, sack races, and plenty more. Riders gallop and vault on and off of their ponies' backs while their teams cheer and holler. In 2017 the Under 17 Mounted Games Championship will take place on Friday night during the Hastings Heart of Hawke's Bay Friday Night Extravaganza, which definitely not to be missed.

Particularly prominent in North America, the show hunter class holds roots in field hunting and is all about elegance. Judged over fences, there is no speed involved and combinations must jump cleanly and in good style and rhythm. Judges look for horses that jump effortlessly and riders that are quiet and in good balance with their mounts, placing them in the correct position to jump perfectly. Pony and horse championships take place over the Friday and Saturday of the show.

Showing began as a way for riders to showcase young horses and their potential for success in other disciplines. A horse that moves well, presents a nice picture with immaculate turn out and manners, and has good overall conformation will do well in the show ring.

The Shopping:

The shopping at HOY is not to be missed, with stores and suppliers from around the country, and as far afield as Australia, coming to showcase their products at the event. There is a thorough selection of equestrian, lifestyle, clothing and food sites present and many local companies choose the show to represent their shops and brand.

Hundreds of sites offer incredible variety, with stallholders often bringing out their very best deals to entice the customers in. A new al fresco living area will add to the lifestyle aspect of HOY for shoppers.

There are also limited VIP weekend packages available which include two or three day passes, Woodford House Champagne Breakfast passes, a program and parking.

Entertainment:

The popular Hastings Heart of Hawke's Bay Friday Night Extravaganza is set to be as thrilling as ever in 2017, with a real showcase of equestrian and local acts set to take the stage. The Equissage Slalom Sweepstake will run as a high speed jumping contest where the winner takes all, followed by the Under 17 Mounted Games Championship. A pony high jump competition will excite and entertain crowds as young riders take their pint-sized mounts over massive jumps. Several local and out of town acts will support the evening as will many equestrian superstars, so it's definitely a night not to miss.

The Hawke's Bay Farmers' Market will be a highlight of the week - taking place on Tuesday early evening, it's a perfect chance for the family to come and get a taste of the event.

Tuesday is also Horse of the Year School's Open Day, where schools from around the area have been invited to attend the show for the day. There they will be able to view their banners created for the Resene Schools Horses in Hawke's Bay Art Competition on display, as well get a taste of what the show is all about.

This year a FREE Nimon's shuttle bus will be running from central Hastings, to Havelock North village and onto the showgrounds, making attendance a breeze.

Visit Horse of the Year's website www.hoy.kiwi for more show information and to purchase tickets.

Celebrating Hastings' diversity on International Cultures Day

Join us to celebrate our multicultural Hawke's Bay in beautiful Cornwall Park this Saturday 4 March. Organised by the New Zealand China Friendship Society, International Cultures Day will have food and entertainment from all corners of the globe.

"We are very excited by the wide range of entertainment acts set to be part of the day, including dancing, drumming, singing and more," says New Zealand China Friendship Society President, Sally Russell.

The mouth-watering food on offer, representing a variety of cuisines from the diverse cultures who now live in Hawke's Bay, is always a highlight. There will be something to suit all tastes, with the energetic chopping of preparation at the Sri Lankan stall drawing the crowd waiting for their delicious Kottus roti, as well as Indian, Cantonese and Brazilian cuisines this year.

To celebrate the upcoming Horse of the Year show, Ros Rowe from the Leg-up Trust is bringing horses to International Cultures Day, including one of the famous Kaimanawa horses, to show how Leg-Up uses horses to relate to young people.

International Cultures Day begins at 11am with a flag ceremony and kapa haka and continues until 3.30 pm with a full programme of local performers.

International Cultures Day

Mayor Lawrence Yule

Start on Opera House build in August

Work on strengthening the Hawke's Bay Opera House will start in August and take about 18 months.

"We're very pleased to be able to announce a start on the work. It has been a very detailed process getting to this point and we are aware that our residents have shown a lot of patience while they wait for the project to get started," says Hastings Mayor Lawrence Yule.

Project manager Herman Wismeyer of Focus Project Management was appointed by Hastings District Council in November 2016 to oversee the earthquake strengthening project.

An extensive public consultation was carried out last year asking residents if they were in favour of strengthening and re-opening the Opera House; 80 per cent of respondents were in favour of bringing the building up to 70 to 75 per cent of the current New Building Standard.

"It is a very big project, but with the backing of our people we believe that this level of intervention will ensure our Opera House's security into the future. It is a vital piece of our heritage, at more than 100 years old. We will all be extremely pleased to see it open and filled with our people again," says Mr Yule.

The Hawke's Bay Opera House was closed in 2014 after engineers found the 12-metre side walls of the theatre could collapse on an audience during an earthquake. Parts of the Opera House fell well short of national requirements to reach at least 34 per cent of the current building code.

The indicative cost of strengthening the building is $11 million, however that could change through the finalising of the tender. Mr Yule says external fundraising opportunities were continuing to be investigated.

The membership of the Council subcommittee overseeing the project is made up of councillors George Lyons, Malcolm Dixon and Sandra Hazlehurst, chaired by Councillor Adrienne Pierce.
